VOICE.

A bird sat on a tree and sang: "Wilt

MODERATO. PIANO

thou with me then come!" Its voice thro' mea- dows sweet- ly rang: "Wilt thou with me then come!'' Far o'er the coun-try we will roam, And try to find thy...

lov'd one's home, Wilt fly with me, then come, Wilt fly with me, then come!

Coda

It murmurs too, the silver brook,
 "Wilt thou with me then come?"
 Thro' ev'ry meadow I will look,
 "Wilt thou with me then come!"
 Now in the stream, and then the sea,
 And thou wilt see no more of me,
 Wilt thou with me then come,
 Wilt thou with me then come!

3

Above from out the azure sky,
 "Wilt thou with me then come?"
 I hear the fleecy cloud too, cry
 "Wilt thou with me then come?"
 But patiently my heart must stay,
 Tho' all the world should sing and say;
 "Wilt thou with me then come,
 Wilt thou with me then come!"
